NORTH OGDEN NOTES

(B. F. Blaylock.)

Only for the unprecedented fine weather, unusually lengthened out, enabling the husbandman to market the heavy fruit crop and to pick and place in the canneries so close to the full yield of the tomato crop would the heavy freeze Thursday morning have subjected the grower to heavy loss, but the extended ripening weather has made it possible to harvest up closer and in better condition than ever before and the varieties of fruits not yet harvested being of harder nature were practically unharmed, thus reducing the losses in general to a minimum.

The opening of the season's work of the Mutuals of the ward was fittingly emphasized Friday evening with a grand social in the Ward Amusement hall with a very appropriate program consisting of vocal and instrumental music, games, dancing, etc.

Mrs. Josephine Blaylock, a former resident of this place is in from her home near Metropolis, Nev., spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alma Montgomery and since her receipt of the sad news of the burial of her home and practically its entire contents, leaving them without even a bed to use. It occurred from an overheated stove while baking. It was partly insured but only to enable them to partly replace.

The annual ward conference of the Local Relief society was held here on Sunday.

Gideon W. Alvord, one of our veteran pioneers, has been critically ill for some time but is now reported much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius H. Campbell have returned for the winter months from their summer ranch in Idaho.

A girl was born Friday evening to Joseph N. Staley and Florence Jackson Staley, mother and child reported doing well. The father is yet very feeble from his long siege of severe sickness, a month of which has been spent at the Dee hospital following an operation for a complication of troubles.

E. M. Blaylock of Idaho Falls is elated over receipt of a national diploma on auditing and expert accounting that he has been working at for a number of years while following that line of work. He is a former resident of this place.

Theaters

AT THE ALHAMBRA.

Big Ben Hart made his appearance last evening at the Alhambra in the first of the Arctcraft pictures in which he was starred entitled, "The Narrow Trail." While it is a western play, it is somewhat different from former pictures Hart has been featured in. It is somewhat of a relief to see him with new characters in the supporting cast.

Unless one said it was a thrilling picture, one would doubt that Hart was in it. That is what his plays consist of. There are plenty of thrills in "The Narrow Trail." The action is in the west, among the hills and canyons of the Sierra Nevada. In the character of a road agent, Hart terrorizes the entire region. Then he comes to town, appropriately disguised, where he meets the one woman. He dares not ask for her hand, because of his mode of life. She invites him to her home in San Francisco. He goes to find her, but where he finds her and under what circumstances makes the most absorbing story and thrilling adventures he has ever been seen in.

While in San Francisco, a fight takes place, and using the vernacular expression, it is "some fight." How they stage such events and no one gets really killed or knocked out, and still make them appear so realistic, will puzzle more than one person who sees it.

With the feature, was shown a reel of liberty loan pictures, featuring several movie stars buying bonds. It is said that five of the favorite screen stars have bought enough bonds to fully equip an entire division. There is also a Lonesome Luke comedy. As an added attraction, Robert Greenwell, Ogden's favorite baritone, sang the new song by Jack Salden, entitled "Because You Love Your Flag, Your Girl and Liberty." The song made a great hit and the singer had to respond to several encores.

AT THE COZY.

A large audience greeted the program that opened at the Cozy theater last evening, "The Woman Who Would Not Pay," featuring the beautiful Cleo Madison, was the feature of the bill. It is a story with but one regret, and that is, there was not enough of it. The acting of the entire cast was excellent and the story had a grip that made it most absorbing. The Cozy is

TWO AUTO ACCIDENTS AT THE RIVERDALE CROSSING

Two accidents occurred yesterday afternoon at the Riverdale crossing. In the first an Oakland automobile driven by D. Tarnasky, Moxum hotel, Salt Lake, was thrown into the air when hit by a northbound passenger train and alighted on top of a Ford driven by C. G. Pascal, 56 East First North street, Salt Lake, crushing the Ford and slightly injuring its occupants. In the Tarnasky car, besides the driver, were C. A. West and a companion, also of Salt Lake, and in the Pascal car were Pascal's wife and baby besides himself. How the occupants of either car escaped death or serious injury is a miracle to all who saw the accident.

According to Tarnasky, he lined up on the east side of the tracks with a number of other automobiles to await the passing of a freight train. When the caboose passed he started across the track. Just as he reached the second track he noticed a passenger train approaching at a rapid rate. He could not slow down and escape a collision so he applied all the power and swerved in the direction the train was going to evade a side collision. The train struck the rear left wheel of the automobile and hurled it into the air, tearing off the rear part of the wheel. The auto alighted on the Pascal car, which had started to follow the Tarnasky machine across the tracks, and smashed the top in and caused other damage.

None of the occupants of the automobiles was seriously injured and after the accident they were given first-aid treatment. The Tarnasky machine was a new Oakland and was completely wrecked.

Shortly after this accident, Ernest Blair, a driver for the Utah-Oregon Lumber company, drove a truck onto the tracks just in time to meet a freight train. Blair saw the freight train approaching in time to jump from the auto truck or he would have been in the smash-up himself. The truck was hurled from the track, but was not seriously damaged.

The Ford car driven by Mr. Pascal of Salt Lake was brought back to Ogden after the accident and repaired. Its owner proceeded with it to Salt Lake after the loss of a few hours. The Oakland machine was so badly damaged, however, that it had to be literally lifted onto a truck.

presenting some most excellent bills for the enjoyment of its patrons.

"The Soul Herder" was the title of the other feature shown last night. It is a western drama, a good as has been seen here in some time. The three reels were replete with action and thrills.

As a good finish to the program is "Rushin' Dancin'." Nothing need be said about the picture, except that it is a sure gloom dispeller. There is no plot to the story, but one wonders that a human brain can think of so many funny things to photograph in two reels of film.

AT THE LYCEUM.

A new serial picture was started at the Lyceum last evening. It is titled "The Lost Express." Many patrons of the movies in Ogden prefer the serial dramas and when it is announced that Helen Holmes is the star of this series, it guarantees a capacity audience are shown.

In this picture she is the daughter of a wealthy inventor who has found a way to granulate gasoline. Well, perhaps we had better let the matter rest until the next episode is shown.

Then there was the regular Kalem Weekly, "Stingaree" story. This one was called "The Bushranger's Struggle" and was an episode of the "Further Adventures of Stingaree." As this serial has run so long it needs no special effort telling how good it is. The way the audience takes to it tells the tale of popularity.

Besides the regular reels there was a comedy that was very good, "Jerry in Yodel Land," and a Mutual Weekly. The whole bill was fine.

REV. JOHN W. HYSLOP SERMON ON SUNDAY

"Christian Self Culture" was the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by the Rev. John W. Hyslop in the Church of the Good Shepherd. His text was taken from the admonition of St. Paul to Timothy: "Take heed unto thyself." 1 Timothy, iv, 16. He said, in part:

"This is a strange admonition from the great apostle, St. Paul, to his son in the faith, he who is so fond of telling us what we ought to do for others. But self-care and self-culture, while they may seem less apostolic, yet they are intensely human. We are accustomed to say that the great note of the present century is the social note, whether we use the term socialism or the word sociology, or the words social settlement as the new method of philanthropic service, yet at the basis of all real service for humanity is the fitness of the individual. Christianity sounds for its initial note the sharpest individualism. Take heed unto thyself."

"There are three chief ideas under which this principle of taking heed unto oneself has been realized. All are necessary. They lie in successive and rising terraces until we reach complete individualism. These three ideas may be stated in the form of three short maxims, and perhaps they are the greatest in the world, although they are very brief. "One is Greek, the second is Roman and the third is distinctly Christian. The first we associate with Socrates, the Athenian philosopher; the second with Marcus Aurelius, the Roman senator, and the third with Jesus of Nazareth. They each consist of only two words. 'Know Thyself,' 'Control Thyself,' 'Deny Thyself.' And if I mistake not they come in this order: First, self knowledge; second, self mastery, and third, self sacrifice. First, intelligence; second, morality; third, loving service."

OGDEN, SINCE 1888

The War of 1812

The battle of New Orleans was fought 15 days after peace was declared—so slow were methods of communication.

The world moves quickly. The United States is a big country. Every part of it must know what every other part is doing.

Western Union Service overcomes the old-time barrier of distance. Fifty thousand employees and one-million-five-hundred-thousand miles of wire are at the call of every citizen of the United States—in twenty-six thousand cities, towns and hamlets.
